Mayor's Message

MAY 2022

Outside of regular Council meetings and internal committee meetings, Council members are required to sit on various boards/ committees. I am lucky to sit on the board for the Barons Eureka Warner Family and Community Support Services (BEW FCSS) as one of my assignments.

When I was employed by the Government of Alberta in the Ministry of Seniors and Housing, I had the privilege of working with FCSS to support seniors. During this time, I really came to understand the immense value the organization provides. Needless to say, I jumped at the opportunity to join the board when I became Mayor.

FCSS is an 80/20 funding partnership with the Government of Alberta and participating municipalities or Metis Settlements. This means that the Town of Coalhurst pays a requisition based on the number of residents, and BEW FCSS provides preventive programming to the community. Locally, FCSS offers counselling, programming for young children and parents, leadership programming for teens, comics clubs and support for seniors, just to name a few. You can learn more about the programs and services offered by FCSS by visiting www.fcss.ca or calling 403-732-5470.

I've also decided to start a "Four Questions With..." segment within my monthly message to allow residents to get to know Council and Administration a bit better. This month you can learn more about Councillor Scott Akkermans.

Tell us a bit about yourself.

I grew up in the town of Hanna before spending time in Saskatoon, Calgary, and Edmonton. In fall of 2020, my wife, Natalie, two-year-old son Henry, and I moved to Coalhurst. I studied Mechanical Engineering Technology at SAIT, which led to a career in the oil and gas industry before settling into my current job as a draftsman for an instrumentation company that is based out of Edmonton.

What has been the most interesting thing that you've learned since joining Council in October?

Since joining Council, there have been many eye-opening moments. Regional collaborations and work outside the town limits have opened my eyes the most. I understood that we work with our neighbouring municipalities, but I didn't realize the extent. As the town's elected representative for our local Regional Economic Development Agency (REDA), SouthGrow, I have learned how a regional approach can help at the local level. In addition, the wide range of topics and items a council covers is a vast scope, so there's been a ton of learning.

What are you passionate about?

There are many passions and hobbies that I enjoy. I enjoy spending time with my family, love going to the mountains, playing board games, and as an avid disc golfer, I'm super excited that a course is coming to town. I also enjoy learning about new things, which lends really well to being on Council.

Is a hotdog a sandwich?

Not at all. If you go to a hot dog stand and ask for a sandwich, they'd look at you sideways. Personally, I'd say a hot dog is closer to a taco than a sandwich. I think if you look at the definition of Sandwich as, "an item of food consisting of two pieces of bread with meat, cheese, or another filling between them, eaten as a light meal." it doesn't quite line up. Either way, a hot dog is delicious!

CULTIVATING CREATIVITY

In today's busy world, it's common to put our hobbies and creative interests at the bottom of our to-do lists. Pastimes like painting, gardening, writing, or playing games with friends can feel like things that only little kids have time for.

Thankfully, there are many reasons to make room for playing and developing creative skills in our daily lives! People in all stages of life can benefit from these activities, whether you're a busy student, parent, business owner, retiree, or anyone in-between.

So, why should we make time for creative hobbies & activities? Here's just a few of the reasons:

1. Creative activities improve brain function and memory.
Creative pursuits exercise many parts of your brain and allow you to build new connections between them. These new connections have been shown to improve your memory and to make it easier for you to learn new things and adapt to new challenges more comfortably.
2. Doing creative things makes it easier to solve problems & make plans.
Creative pursuits of any kind, whether it be writing a poem or fixing up a vintage car, give your brain the chance to think outside the box. Projects like these require you to plan ahead, making sure you have the right materials and time to complete them. However, even the best laid plans can fall apart sometimes. Learning to solve small issues in creative projects helps us become more comfortable with solving some of life's bigger problems, as we build patience, self-compassion, and resourcefulness.
3. Creative activities are great for our mood, health, and communities.
Being creative has many benefits for our physical and mental health. There is more and more research showing that building creative skills and seeking out a sense of "mastery" is extremely good for us, as it provides a sense of accomplishment and purpose, motivation for the future, and an opportunity to relax and unwind from daily stressors. Creative activities also strengthen communities, as creative people are often able to connect with others by sharing their work and seeking out groups with similar interests.

It's never too late to pick a hobby back up or get started on something new! Libraries and online communities are a great place to begin. If you're ready to reconnect to your creative side, take some time to think about what you'd like to do, look for some resources on how to get going, and then set yourself a small, attainable goal to start with. The sky's the limit from there!
